PETRA

Originating from the depths of the ancient world, where time seems frozen and the earth whispers tales of lost civilizations, the Petra tile series draws its inspiration.

Designed to reflect the grandeur and aged beauty of Petra city, these tiles embody the strength and elegance of centuries-old architectural marvels.

With their rich, earthy colors and textured finishes, they echo the carved sandstone facades that once stood as silent guardians against the relentless desert winds.

Each tile in the Petra series is a tribute to the spirit of a civilization that carved its legacy into the very bones of the earth.

The rustic finish, with its natural imperfections, adds a sense of history and character to every space it graces, creating a living connection between the ancient world and modern interiors.

CLEANING & MAINTENANCE

INTRODUCTION:

These tiles are easy to clean and maintain. Regular cleaning not only enhances their appearance but also helps preserve their natural shine and surface aesthetics.

INITIAL CLEANING:

Initial cleaning after tile installation is extremely important. It helps remove any residue from mortar, adhesives, or epoxy that may remain in the joints. It is recommended to use an acid-based detergent diluted in a 1:5 ratio with water. Scrub the surface thoroughly with this solution to clean effectively. Afterward, rinse the surface well with clean water to eliminate all traces of the detergent.

MAINTENANCE AND CARE:

Manufactured under high firing temperatures using premium raw materials, these tiles are waterproof and have a minimal absorption rate, which prevents dirt from penetrating the surface. However, surface cleaning remains essential.

Avoid using detergents containing wax, as they can form an unwanted greasy layer. The proper selection of cleaning agents is crucial. For polished surfaces, it's recommended to cover them with particle board or another suitable material post-installation to protect them from dirt and ongoing site work.

GENERAL RECOMMENDATIONS:

In heavy footfall areas like airports, shopping malls, and public spaces, automatic cleaning machines with suction functionality are recommended. These machines provide deep cleaning while also removing excess liquids, preventing the formation of unwanted surface layers.

Any standard detergent can be used, except those containing hydrofluoric acid or its compounds. Always keep detergent concentration low to ensure cost-effective and efficient cleaning.

For raised flooring, large-sized, glossy, or polished tiles are preferred, as they require minimal liquid and are easier to clean—often even with dry methods. Once installation is complete, a thorough cleaning using suitable products is essential.

MATT MATERIALS:

For matt-finish surfaces, follow the same initial cleaning procedure. Afterward, maintain them using hot water mixed with an alkaline detergent in a 1:200 concentration.

Applying waterproofing agents on matt finishes is not recommended. Due to their zero porosity, such agents can leave uneven deposits, ruining the slab's aesthetic appeal.
